

HUGHES LEADING MINISTER'S SONS

Hudson Falls Points With Pride to Records of Pastor's Boys.

MANY MAKING GOOD

Justice Is Hero at Home Town Now; His Visits Red Letter Days.

HUDSON FALLS, N. Y., June 26.—While this town has been "pointing with pride" to the fact that it was the boyhood home of Charles E. Hughes, the residents are unable to understand why it should be remarked that here is a case of a preacher's sons making good. In Hudson Falls such is the rule, not the exception.

This town's "preacher's sons" are not only leading men in the community, but many of them are to be seen in the highest offices of the state and nation. Some of them have been sent out to other fields to spread the name of the town of their boyhood.

Mr. Hughes' occasional visits here have been real occasions in the life of the village, and what he said and what he did at those times are well remembered by the residents. When he was a boy his father was pastor of the First Baptist church here, and that was in the immediate days immediately preceding the civil war.

Saw Soldiers Marching Away. Mr. Hughes has said in addresses to the residents of the town that his earliest recollections were of those stirring days, and, of course, the background was the familiar river of Hudson Falls—Sandy Hill. It was the town's name in those days and until six years ago.

Here he saw the volunteer soldiers march away to war and heard the farewell address of inspiration and courage delivered to them by his father.

The visitor to this pretty village, situated on the "Warren of the North," hereafter has been led to the grave of Jane McGraw, the heroine of the romantic tragedy of the revolution, the grave of Donald MacGregor, the Scot Highland Highlander who was mortally wounded at Thermopylae and who died near here as the British forces moved southward, the house where Burgoyne is said to have slept a few days before his surrender at Saratoga, the old manor house where Martin Van Buren was often entertained.

Place of a Minister's Son.

Since the newspapers have been calling attention to the fact that in this quiet town two sons of preachers are leading the two big parties, thus disproving the old belief that "the pastor's boy never amounts to much," it is fair to say that the town of Hudson Falls is a place where the sons of preachers are making good.

In the category of preachers' sons of Hudson Falls who have attained success Charles E. Hughes comes first. He has gained priority by reason of his years and the heights to which he has advanced.

emblems. In the hall of the convention shields bearing the American flag twined with the British, Canadian and Cuban flags will carry out the International idea. There will be no standard representing clubs nor advertisements of any kind in the convention hall. These however, are encouraged in the corridors of the convention hall and in the hotel. Telegraph and telephone facilities will be installed in the corridors of the auditorium for the convenience of visiting delegates. Large quantities of souvenirs from various clubs will be distributed from a distributing station. The souvenirs will be gathered together and packed in boxes. These will be shipped to the homes of delegates on application. Bulletin boards announcing the events of the convention and the time of their occurrence will be placed in all hotels and in the lobby of the convention hall. A bureau will be established for the distribution of newspapers. Here visiting delegates may secure free copies of the papers of their home towns. These will also be distributed at the hotel.

WHO WROTE DEMO'S CAMPAIGN LETTER?

George E. Black, Committee Member, Knew Nothing of It.

Leading Democrats of Tulsa have been busy the past two days explaining that they had nothing to do with the "urgent" campaign letter mailed out ostensibly by the finance committee, and in which an appeal was made to all Democrats to find anyone who had not registered and send their name and address to the county registrar.

George E. Black, a candidate for mayor before the recent municipal primary, is one of those whose names appear on the letter as a member of the finance committee. It was learned yesterday that Mr. Black had nothing to do with the getting out of the letter. One of his closest friends stated that Black knew nothing about the letter until one of them came to him through the mails, and it is further rumored that Mr. Black, who is an intelligent and wealthy citizen, was indignant when he found that his name had been used on such a crude affair.

They Did It.

That the Democratic organization is responsible for the letter, however, there can be no doubt. Rumor has it that half of the employees at the courthouse stayed in the building several nights mailing out the letters. It is further stated that the mailing list was secured from the registrar. In spite of the fact that the registrar says he has not been able to secure all of the precinct books. In fact, he failed to send a list of the registered voters to the secretary of state, so that the latter might mail to them printed arguments for and against the literacy test and other important laws to be voted on at the August primary.

That letter is destined to live long in the memory of intelligent citizens of Tulsa.

It shows to what extremes some politicians will go when they find they are about to lose the little machine that has kept them enmeshed in power so long.

A Congressman's Recipe.

"If I were obliged to pack a lot of advice into a few words," says United States Congressman Edward J. King of Illinois in the American Magazine, "for the benefit of the poor boys, I would tell them to decide as early in life as possible what they intend to do. There is nothing so helpful to a tired traveler as a destination."

SANTA FE WILL INSURE ITS MEN

Road Will Pay Death Benefits Paying From $250 to $3,000.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 1.—President E. P. Ripley announced yesterday that the Santa Fe railroad will pay a sum not less than $250 nor more than $3,000 to the family of any of its twenty-five thousand employees who die in the service. A man must be in the railroad's employ for two years to become eligible for the insurance.

The plan is to be on trial for two years.

Beginning July 1 this company will pay the beneficiary a sum equal to 5 per cent of the employee's last year's salary multiplied by the number of years of his service.

The Santa Fe is said to be the first great American railroad to insure its employees' lives. The fact that no accurate estimate of the cost is available is presumed to be the reason for placing the plan on trial.

Some months ago the Santa Fe increased the pay of its unionized employees to 12 per cent on its common stock this year.

His Evidence.

"Not guilty, sir," replied the prisoner.

"Where did you find the prisoner, constable?" asked the magistrate.

"In Trafalgar square, sir," was the reply.

"And what made you think he was intoxicated?"

"Well, sir, he was throwing his walking stick into the back of one of the furniture and trying to catch it with the stone balls to go and fetch it out again.—Everybody's Magazine.
